The internship spanned from 1 January 2025 to 1 July 2025 and focused on revamping the official website of our institute, fcrit.ac.in, as well as developing a user-friendly admin dashboard, which can be readily used by faculty to dynamically maintain all the content on the main website. The team worked on infrastructure migration, transitioning from CakePHP to a Node.js-based server, optimizing deployment pipelines and enhancing system scalability and performance. They also employed an MVC architecture for scalable and optimal project workflow, and simplify development for future updates to the website. The team followed the Software Development Life Cycle (SDLC) methodology, covering all stages from idea formation and design to development, testing, and deployment, ensuring a structured and efficient workflow throughout the project.
